Shuffet Would Appreciate Any Unique Murder Methods

By Juanita Britt

Western is proud to add to her evergrowing list of prodigies still another, and her latest addition is a first-quarter freshman, Vernon Shuffet, of Greensburg, Vernon, or "Babe" as his friends have dubbed him, is the type of person whom people meet, are impressed by, and remember for future reference, because of his dynamic personality and direction of purpose in his chosen vocation, which is writing.

Vernon is taking the pre-journalism course prescribed by Northwestern University, and he plans to be ultimately a free lance writer. In the meantime he is doing very well for himself by writing for Ace Magazines, Inc. His work appears in "Ten-Story Detectives" and "Ten Detectives Aces" magazines. His next publication will be released in the April issue of "Ten-Story Detectives".

Vernon has a schedule which he claims he follows religiously. By so doing he is able to turn out a story of five thousands words every ten days, allowing five hundred words per day and a comfortable margin for his academic activities. He writes best, he says, after he has created a personalized atmosphere. His formula has nostalgic touches reminiscent of some of his noted fellowmen. He likes to write during the four hours which hover closely around midnight.

Prior to his coming to Western, Vernon worked for six months in Public Relations at Wright Field, near Dayton, Ohio. He has been writing for two years. His second story was published. He says he doesn't know "what would have happened if it hadn't sold", and he intimates that his initial writing efforts probably would have been thwarted if it had been rejected. The next to be published was effort number thirteen. Since that time he has had six stories published. One of the remarkable things about Vernon's writing is the force and authority displayed in his compositions, and another is his age. Vernon's first story was published while he was seventeen. He says he never read a "pulp" magazine before he started writing for them, and chuckling to himself, he added that his hometown drug store gets three copies a month of the magazines which are published by his publisher, and he buys all three of them.

Very like our present day writers, many of whom lead, contrary to tradition, very well-adjusted lives, Vernon likes such extra-curricular activities as bowling, swimming, and dancing, but primarily he is interested in writing as a hobby and as a vocation. He likes Ersk. Gardner's "Perry Mason" books. His writing ability may be due to the versatility of his background. His father, whom he consults about some of the "angles" in his writing, is a lawyer, his brother is a doctor, and his sister is a teacher.

Displaying complete sincerity and intensity of purpose, he says that he, using his own terms, "would appreciate any unique murder methods anyone can suggest as material for further work."

Lt. Lee Interning At St. Luke's

Lt. (jg) Vernon Lee, an assistant surgeon in the United States Naval Reserve, is now interning at the St. Luke's Hospital in Duluth, Minnesota. Lieutenant Lee accepted a research scholarship at the University of Wisconsin upon his graduation from Western in 1940. During his last year and a half of medical schooling, he trained under the Y-12 program. He was commissioned his present rank and received his degree of M. D. in September of 1944.

While at the Wisconsin university, the young lieutenant did his research work on the effects of cyclopropane, an anesthetic agent on the heart. His Anesthesiology was published by the anesthetists of the United States in September of 1943. Cyclopropane is one of the newer anesthetics, having been introduced clinically in the 1930's by Dr. Ralph Waters, one of the country's leading men of the field, now located at the University of Wisconsin.

Lieutenant Lee, whose home is in Covington, has become affiliated with Phi Beta Pi, a social medical fraternity, Gamma Alpha and Sigma Xi Society for the promotion of research and science, the latter two being honorary scientific fraternities. He expects to be at the Duluth hospital until June, when he will probably be sent to active duty.

Lieutenant Lee visited friends in Bowling Green recently.

Patricia Amberson Is Named Good Citizenship Pilgrim

Patricia Amberson, Training School senior, has been selected as the "Good Citizenship Pilgrim" of her class. The contest, conducted by the Daughters of the American Revolution, is held in every state in the union under the sponsorship of the local chapters.

The senior class members of the various accredited high schools vote on the girl, who they feel qualified for the honor, on the basis of dependability, service, leadership, and patriotism. The three girls receiving the highest number of votes are considered by the faculty, and, of these, one is selected to receive the honor of being the pilgrim of that school.

Last year there were 5,000 pilgrims in the United States, of which 116 were from Kentucky.

Patricia will be a candidate for the "Kentucky Pilgrim". Prior to the war the 48 state representatives were entertained on an historical pilgrimage by the sponsoring society. Last year each state pilgrim received a $100-war bond.

Patricia's activities at the Training School prove that she is an "all-around girl". In the forthcoming senior play she has the role of Lydia. She finds time, also to participate in the Glee Club. Patricia will be graduated in June and plans to enter Western next September.

Classmates Meet In The Pacific

Everywhere and everyday Yanks are backing the old saying "It's a small world." Here is a story of two lieutenants, both members of Western's 1939 graduating class, who met out in the Pacific Ocean recently.

Last November Lt. Ed Rutledge was shot down off the coast of the Philippines. After inflating his raft, he sent out an S. O. S. signal. In less than four hours a PBX patrol plane came to his rescue and landed. As the pilot got out to help Lieutenant Rutledge into the plane, he could not believe his own eyes, nor could Rutledge when he recognized the pilot as Lt. Harry Saddler, his former classmate.

Mrs. Hill Named Citizen of the Week

Mrs. J. Murray Hill, mother of Jeanne and Linda Hill, was recently proclaimed citizen of the week on the Orchid to You Program over station WLBJ.

Active in Red Cross work in Bowling Green, she is also a member of the State Board of Directors of the Society of Crippled Children.

At present Mrs. Hill is chairman of the Nurses Aide Corps

Under the direction of Nicholas Kostukoff, the General Platoff Don Cossack Chorus, was presented by the Bowling Green Community Concert Association in Van Meter Auditorium last night.

The members of the Chorus revealed love for the homeland in their songs of Old Russia, and have made history during their travels throughout Europe, North and South Africa, the Far East, South America, Australia, New Zealand, Honolulu, Mexico and the West Indies. This season marks their sixth transcontinental American tour.

Each member of the Chorus was trained by Mr. Kostukoff. They presented liturgical music, folksongs, and Cossack war songs. In the "Les-ginka", a Caucasian Cossack dance, one dancer gave an exhibition of juggling 12 knives from forehead, shoulders and clenched teeth—which is a tribute to the Caucasian's faithful friend, in battle and in the dance—his dagger. In the final Kozatchok, a popular dance of the Don Cossacks, 12 men joined in the dance while the chorus encouraged them with shouting and clapping.

This famous organization started in 1926 in Prague, where these former cavalry officers of the Imperial Russian Army had taken refuge. The organization was named after a famous Cossack general of a century ago, who played the hero's role in routing Napoleon in his march on Moscow. The men came from the region bordering on the river Don, which flows through western Russia down to the Sea of Azov.

The program was presented as follows: Part I: "Glory to Thee, O Lord!", Gretchaginoff, soloist, N. Khadarik, baritone; "Of Thy Mystical Supper", Lvov, arranged by M. Fivelsky; "Credo", Gretchaginoff, soloist, S. Slepoushkin, bass baritone; "Blessed be the Lord", Tchaikovsky; and "The Lord's Prayer", Malotte, arranged by M. Fivelsky. Part II: "Song of the Tachanka", Listov, arranged by A. Salama; "Churchbells of Novgorod, Karnovich"; "Galitzky's Aria from 'Prince Igor'", Borodin, arranged by M. Fivelsky, soloist, S. Slepoushkin, bass baritone; "Night-ingle", folk-song, soloist, M. Dedovitch, tenor; "Song of the Plains (or 'Meadowland')", Knipper, arranged by V. Fedchenko; "The Song of General Platoff", Cossack war song, soloist, N. Khadarik, baritone; and "Les-ginka", Caucasian Cossack dance, dancer, G. Soloduhin. Part III: "Kaleenka (Snowball Tree)", arranged by P. Ouglitzky, soloist, S. Slepoushkin, bass baritone; "Snow Over Russia", popular Russian song, soloist, V. Marmonoff, tenor; "Brave Soldier", popular Russian military song; and the "Kozatchok", popular dance of the Don Cossacks, dancer, Volodia Lazarev.

Navy Radar Test To Be Given

The "Eddy Test", for men attempting to qualify for radio technician (radar) training, will be given every Tuesday and Thursday at 2:00 p. m. at the Navy Recruiting Station for this area, located at the Bowling Green Post Office Building, according to an announcement this week by Chief S. C. Newman, petty officer in charge.

Formerly, the test could be taken anytime; but, by setting aside definite periods on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 2:00 o'clock, a larger number of men can take the test, with less disturbance.

Both 17-year old volunteers, and men about to enter the Navy through selective service induction, may be able to qualify for valuable training at Navy Radar Schools, provided they have sufficient background in algebra, physics, and related subjects. Those selected may enter the Navy as first-class seamen (equivalent to corporal in the army).

Interested men were urged by Chief Newman to visit the office a few weeks before they plan to take the test, in order to get necessary information about the procedure, even before they start studying and reviewing for the test. In special cases, men who cannot take the test at the new times, Tuesdays and Thursdays at 2:00 o'clock, may be able to arrange a more convenient time, Chief Newman added.

Her Weakest Link

Western embodies and exudes the spirit of good-will and encouragement to her prodigies, simultaneously with the enactment of fitting them with higher principles for directing their future lives. Western is proud of her outstanding students, who, by their own resourcefulness are able to contribute toward their education, and who incorporate their extra-curricular activities with those encircling the expansion of their education. To these students Western extends an understanding hand. She lends a sympathetic ear, a word of encouragement. She stands as a bulwark against a suspicious world. Her main purpose is to inspire, cheer, hearten, and advance her proteges. Aside from her aim to promote scholasticism, she endeavors to guide her students aesthetically, with honesty and integrity as watchwords. Social prominence, wealth, indigence have no separate meanings here. Western's students are conditioned to a world of competition where only the realization and admission of an individual's limitations and the acceptance of superiority of some of his associates differentiates, and then only as a mark distinguishing the method of instruction he receives. Western imbibes and exalts the honest efforts of her students.

This is the unwritten spirit emblazoned on Western's invisible banner and borne aloft for the world to know. It is the criterion by which newcomers to the Hill may judge us.

Representing the National Tuberculosis Association, Miss Parsons spoke to members of Mr. J. R. Whitmer's Hygiene and Sanitation class, Friday, February 9. She stressed the fact that contrary to popular opinion climate has no bearing on the healing of tuberculosis. Miss Parsons says that no longer is the idea of a cigar-smoking, uneducated person embodied in the health officer; now the health officer is an educated man who has specialized in public health.

—HILLTOPICS—

For the last two or more weeks the bells in Cherry Hall have not been ringing, the clocks have not been working and, as usual, the chimes have not been operating. Once early this week a bell some place in the building rang. We hope that this is a sign that one or all of these will be operating again and once more classes may go on as scheduled without interruptions from some late comers whose "watches are slow."

—HILLTOPICS—

For the past few days some of the most efficient and fastest workers on the campus have been the painters in Van Meter. Proof of their efficiency may be seen as one walks down the freshly painted corridors in the administration building.

—HILLTOPICS—

Here's one we heard the other day after class meetings... A senior supposing himself to be in chapel, sat in the freshman class meeting lamenting the fact that there were not more of his fellow class mates—especially seniors—there to hear the talk given by Miss Helm. We can imagine the embarrassment of this ministerial student when he realized what had happened. Has it ever happened to you?

—HILLTOPICS—

Some interesting souvenirs of World War II were shown members of the Geography 102 class last week. One of the members of the class had two maps which had been used by the air corps on the European front. These maps had just been released to the public as non-confidential material. They were made of a material resembling silk or nylon, were about the size of a girl's kerchief, and were waterproof. On both sides were maps of the different West European countries containing information which had been of strategic value. The maps which were folded like handkerchiefs had been given all the boys who had used them, as soon as they were released to the public.

SOCIAL STABILITY

The stability of any society must in the long run depend upon its members' belief that they have been allowed to prove themselves. The desire for special privilege may be denied, but to deprive a man of his deserts makes that man, in heart if not in deed, the enemy of that society, and a focus of discontent. When, on the other hand, men are convinced that higher attainments are theirs provided they show the requisite capacity and make the necessary effort, they become friends of those attainments. Men who enjoy the opportunity, however dubious and remote, to enrich themselves tolerate the acquisition and attainment of wealth. But this applies to other values as well. Science, art and education will be viewed with hostility by those who feel themselves arbitrarily excluded, cherished by those who feel that these spheres of life are open to all qualified aspirants, including perchance, themselves or their children. (Ralph Barton Perry in "Puritanism and Democracy")

PLEDGE

I will buy only what I really need; I will pay no more than ceiling prices, and I will pay my ration points in full; I will save—I will buy and hold all the War Bonds and Stamps I can—and then some; I will save my things—make them last longer; I will save material—by salvaging paper, metal, fats, etc.; I will save manpower for Uncle Sam—by working or helping with home chores; I will save transportation—by walking wherever possible to save tires and gas; I will speed victory by helping to check rumors and propaganda; I will encourage my family and friends to abide by this pledge.

Sharps And Flats

By Hilton Sisk

Today, more than any other period during the history of our nation, the American people are listening to and demanding more good music. Many factors have contributed to make this fact a reality. The growth of our nation in Art and Culture is one of the major reasons but we are of the opinion that radio has had more to do with developing a serious musical taste among the masses than any other single factor. People who become acquainted with music by means of radio are more than likely to be seen attending concerts later, and very often making an extreme effort to do so.

It is very gratifying when we realize that some of the largest business corporations in our land are sponsoring programs which bring us good music. Such programs as the Metropolitan Opera sponsored by the Texas Company, The Firestone Hour, The Bell Telephone Program, New York Philharmonic program sponsored by the United States Rubber Company, are only a few programs which have become a part of our opinion that such Corporations who sponsor good music should be congratulated and patronized by the people who listen to and appreciate such programs.

Not only are the American people demanding more music but they are demanding American music. We realize this fact because such programs as we have mentioned before are featuring many of the works by American composers. No longer is it necessary to rely on music produced abroad. We are now creating our own music and still farther—we are training our own artists to perform it.

Yes, we still have a long way to go but it can very easily be said that music has become a part of our American way of life.

Last night the Don Cossacks Cossack Chorus under the direction of Nicholas Kostukoff appeared in Concert from the stage of Van Meter Auditorium. The chorus, which is now celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of their foundation was received with great enthusiasm by the audience.

This group gave their traditional program which consists essentially of music of old and new Russia. The Cossacks are now in the course of their sixth American tour and are very widely acclaimed wherever they appear.

Their concert was the second and perhaps the most interesting attraction in the Bowling Green Community Concert Association.

J. Dan Baldwin, who served as State marketing director, has taken a position in the Marketing department of the Alabama Extension Service, a unit of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Mr. Baldwin was graduated from Western in 1931.

Mrs. Joseph Taylor of the music department, who has been ill for the past several days, has returned to her piano study this week.

The fourth student recital, of the current school year, was held in the Choral Room of the Music Building Wednesday afternoon. This recital was perhaps the largest and best planned program of the entire year. Dr. Vincent extends a cordial invitation to students from all departments to attend these regular recitals.

Students of Mr. Channon, Mr. Alexander, Mrs. Taylor, and Miss Chisholm appeared on the program.

Faculty Notes

In his talk, Dr. Wilson stressed folk names for birds and superstitions concerning birds. He stated that current superstitions about different species of birds are practically the same as our forefathers had when they landed in this country.

"Today's Art and Tomorrow's Happiness" was the subject of a discussion by Miss Ruth Hines Temple when she addressed the Elizabethtown Woman's Club on February 2. The club met in the Brown-Pusey House.

In her talk, Miss Temple, a member of the Training School faculty, showed how art today offers the foundation of happiness tomorrow.

THE KENTUCKY BUILDING---MUSEUM AND LIBRARY

By Marjorie Rickman

Judge Mac Swinford, U. S. Federal judge, of Cynthiana, was a visitor at the Kentucky Building recently. After spending several hours there, he remarked: "I have just one criticism to make—Why don't you let people know more about what a wonderful thing you have here? I had no idea about it's scope and value."

Well!!! We thought we had written and talked about the Kentucky Building, the gardens, the museum, the library, until every one in the United States must have heard about it!

But every day visitors arrive—our own faculty and students, residents of Bowling Green and of Warren County, who exclaim in surprise at the beauty of the reception room the collections in the bird and relic rooms, and the vast amount of interesting and valuable material in the library. The commonest expression of all is "I had no idea you had anything like this here!"

Judge Swinford was delighted to find an old report of the Court of Appeals that contained accounts and drawings of original surveys of land held by his ancestors. He also found a book by Cumming, written in 1810, and published in Pittsburgh, that gave two pages of description of his home town of Cynthiana, and adjacent territory.

If you haven't spent several hours in the Kentucky Building, plan to do so in the near future—and bring your family and friends with you.

The antique furniture, the relics from Indian and pioneer days through our present World War II, the hundreds of mounted specimens of birds and animals will, entertain you, no matter what your hobby may be.

And in the Library will doubtless be found historical data on your home town or your family. Farmers will find books on agriculture; teachers can learn about education in the state; scientists about botany, zoology, geology, etc.; musicians can see the early music; historians will find every Kentucky history, and many county histories; those interested in religion can read the story of every religious denomination of the State; if you like to travel, there can be found books about Kentucky from the earliest days to the present; and poetry and fiction by Kentucky authors—from the first to the last ones—are to be found in abundance. In fact, if you are interested in any phase of Kentucky life, come to the Kentucky Library to read about it.

The Building is open to the public every week day from 9 to 12 a.m. and 1 to 5 p.m. and each Sunday afternoon from 2 to 4 p.m.

You are cordially invited to walk over the grounds, visit the museum, and read in the Library.

THE LANGUAGE OF MUSIC

Since music is a language, let us remind ourselves of a certain handicap in using one language in defining another. Human speech may have musical qualities, but it excels in the ability to state an intellectual concept and to present an argument. Music has intellectual elements, but its strength lies in its ability to express aspirations, yearnings, spiritual unpreaching. It speaks to our minds, but its eloquence rouses emotion and influences character. The best of every language, unfortunately, can not be translated into other languages. The painter, the sculptor and the dancer can give partial versions of a story which has been told in words, but they can reproduce nothing which is in essence literary; they can not, for example, convey a witty remark. And music is the art which is least translatable. It can be associated with other arts but it can not by itself describe or reproduce them and no other art can by itself reproduce music. (John Erskine in "What is Music")

Spikes Cleats and Sneakers

By Jimmie Kereiakes

College authorities throughout the nation, disturbed by the admission of five Brooklyn College players that they had accepted $1,000 to throw a game, pondered anew today methods of combatting widespread gambling on games that one source estimated ran as high as $10,000,000 weekly.

The disclosures of the scandal, likened to baseball's Chicago Black Sox of the 1919 World Series, broke suddenly late Monday night, January 29, with the arrest of Harry Rosen and Harvey Stemmer on charges of conspiracy.

The players, dropped from the Brooklyn squad and later expelled from school, signed a statement they received $1,000 from Stemmer to throw the Akron game originally scheduled for January 31 in Boston.

Leaders of the indoor sport, from Ned Irish, promoter of the double-headers at Madison Square Garden, to Wilbur C. Smith, president of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, asserted that the action of the five Brooklyn players in no way typified the attitude of the college athlete in general. Smith called upon the "every-day fan, who is in no way to be confused with the professional gamblers, to help us by not betting on college athletics." Irish announced the taking of measures designed "to give the player assurance of protection for these advances, but in order to be effective, must remain undisclosed at the moment."

Coach Ed Diddle, who has been taking the Hilltoppers on trips through the East since 1942 and has played in tournament games in Madison Square Garden, said that neither he nor his players had been approached or contacted in any way relative to basketball games he has played in Buffalo, New York, and Philadelphia.

Coach Diddle, in referring to the acceptance of money by members of Brooklyn's team, said it is unfortunate that the boys should fall for the gambler's bait, but believes basketball will not be hurt materially by the expose and thinks the feature attractions in the big cities will be continued.

—W.K.T.C.—

Latest statistics now find the Toppers with a season record of 14 victories and nine defeats, through the Murray game. Total Topper points now stands at 1,085 or game-average of 47.2 points, while holding opponents to a total of 1,001 and game-average of 43.5. The findings show the Red and Grey's individual scoring as follows: Sinkhorn 234, Huter 221, Jones 205, Kennedy 153, Murphy 118, Kelly 79, Bazzell 29, Atkinson 12, Rumble 13, Hayes 3, and Erwin 2. The Hilltoppers have only three remaining games, playing Eastern and DePaul away and Morehead here February 20.

—W.K.T.C.—

Western's unpredictable cagers came through with their best performance of the season in downing a powerful Marshall College quintet, winner of 13 out of 16 games and previous conqueror of the Toppers by 68-41, on the local floor by 67-45, before a thrill-packed, partisan crowd. Their passing was almost perfect, their shooting all that coach could hope for, and their aggressiveness and fight absolutely tops. Not many (if any) teams in the nation could have stopped the rampaging Diddlemen in an exhibition such as they put on against Marshall here.

—W.K.T.C.—

Western's invasion of the Murray Thoroughbred backyard was a success, as they defeated their arch rivals for the second time this year in another Western-Murray contest. The first half was a see-saw affair with the score being tied five times before a fielder by Kennedy put the Toppers on top 20-19 as the half ended. The Breds came back in the second half to go ahead by 29-25 with about 12 minutes of play remaining. At this point Western's Bazzell and Jones, two Purchase lads performing before their homefolk, fouled out, and Western's chances appeared very slim. But their replacements, Kennedy and Atkinson, along with the other three regulars, played outstanding defensive ball to hold Murray scoreless for 10 minutes, while Western scoring spurge consisting of buckets by Huter, Sinkhorn, Kelley, and Atkinson put the game on the ice at 37-29. Two fielders by Murray in the last two minutes narrowed the difference to its final reading, 37-33. The regular season record in the rivalry now stands 18-12 in favor of Western. ## Military Ammunition Dangerous For Hunters

With the prospect that supplies of essential civilian ammunition will be greatly reduced in 1945, because the Government's military needs must come first, hunters are again warned against using ammunition of unknown origin by a spokesman of Remington Arms Company, Inc.

Los Angeles County, California, recently reported 14 fires caused by the use of tracer ammunition. Thus it is evident that military ammunition is getting into the hands of civilian hunters who are using it without knowledge of what they are shooting.

Hunters should never shoot any cartridge without first knowing that it was specifically manufactured for the type of weapon in which it is to be used. If there is any question in your mind concerning the safety of shooting a particular type of cartridge in your gun, play safe. Write any of the arms or ammunition companies for advice before taking a chance.

Three Cheers For Cheer Leaders

By Juanita Britt

Flashing red and white blazon the way for increased enthusiasm in Western's cheering section when cheerleaders Lucille Hanna, Anna Jo and Betty Jo Cook, and Jimmy Rudd go into action. These four cheerleaders have devised, and are executing, a number of intricate steps that fit in nicely with their rousing yells. With their vivacity and gusto while leading the cheering section, they draw out even the most lethargic members into peals of encouragement to the Hilltoppers.

Lucille was elected unanimously after having served successfully in the same capacity last year. She hails from Fordsville. Anna Jo and Betty Jo came to Western veterans of the cheerleading section of London high school, while Jimmy served his apprenticeship with the Hanson high team.

"Varsity" promises to be the permanent appellation of these rooters if they keep up the good work in the future that they have shown during these short months of service in the past.

Taxes paid by industry largely maintain our Public School System. The Railroads contribute greatly to that source of revenue. In 1943 alone, the Louisville & Nashville Railroad paid over $2,200,000 in taxes for the support of schools and State Universities.

That is equivalent to employing about 2,000 teachers or sending about 60,000 children to school for one year, who otherwise might be deprived of the benefit of proper education or modern school facilities.

The L & N finds satisfaction in the number of Southern boys and girls who are attending fine schools, in contrast to the "little red schoolhouse" of a generation ago. This is made possible in no small measure by its contribution in school taxes. The L & N likes to think of these boys and girls of the South as our own—"We're putting our sons and daughters through College," we might say.

No other agency has for almost 100 years contributed more to the growth of the South's commerce and culture than our own "Old Reliable"—the L & N. We hope to continue to aid in that program in the postwar period. Toward that goal we ask only an impartial treatment in regulation; that we be given an equal opportunity with our competitors to serve the Public's needs.

Redbirds Defeat Leitchfield

College High's revengeful Red Birds turned on the Leitchfield Bulldogs Tuesday night in the final half to gain a 48-38 victory in the Grayson county capitol.

During the second period the Cardinals, using their superiority in height to good advantage in upping their score twelve points to leave the floor at half-time trailing by only 22-17.

College High literally exploded as soon as the second half opened, whipping in baskets from all over the floor with Loudermilk and Sanderfur leading assault.

In the final quarter the Cards showed their strength in all departments of play, outscoring the Leitchfield boys to claim the tilt by a ten point margin.

Leitchfield salvaged some glory from the struggle in that they were the second team to score over 30 points on the Cardinals in 17 games this season.

Western Downs Murray Again

In another hectic battle, Western defeated the Murray Thoroughbreds by a score of 37-33 with the scoring evenly distributed throughout the game which was played on February 10.

With the game tied five times in the first half, a free throw by Murray's Reagan and a fielder made by Kennedy put Western ahead 20-19 as the half was called.

The game continued at a blistering pace in the second half with the Breds ahead by five points before the three quarter mark, and Western's Jones and Bassell fowling out.

Successive shooting from Atkinson and Huter brought the score back to a 29-29 tie. Two field goals from Huter, one from Kelley and a free throw by Sinkhorn ended the scoring for the Diddlemen while Murray making two more fielders before the whistle with the final margin reading 37-33.

margain with their two victories in two tries.

Opposition for Western's last remaining home game of the season will be an outstanding Morehead College five, which now is leading the K. I. A. C. conference with a record of eight wins and two losses and which defeated the Toppers in the first meeting by 72-58. Morehead's roster boasts such superb cagers as:

Warren Cooper, sophomore from Brooksville, who is finishing his college career this season. Cooper has been one of the greatest to ever wear the blue and gold for the Eagles. In his freshman and sophomore years he consistently hit the hoops for 20 points a game. Last year, as a junior, he led the state and south in scoring, as he averaged 21 points in 15 games.

Harry Carpenter, sophomore from Olive Hill, is the only other man left from last year's squad. His ambidextrous shooting around the 17-foot marker won him the other forward position, which he holds again this season.

Jack Pobst, freshman from Georgetown, Ohio, is possibly the cleverest and smoothest passer Morehead has ever had. He is a smart ball-handler and is always fast and dangerous around the foul circle.

Homier Bickers, freshman from Carrollton, is a 5'9" guard. His ability to hit long shots has proven superior to any boy on the squad.

Park Prater, 6'3" center from Salyersville, started his basketball career in the eighth grade, by making the first team for Salyersville High School, then went on to captain his team through four years of high school.

Clifford Williams, towering 6'3" freshman from Kittis Hill, Ohio, is only 17 years old and has been doing a capable job of filling the pivot position.

Evansville Nips Toppers 45-41

Evansville college came from behind in the second half to win a hard fought decision from the Hill-toppers, Saturday night, February 3 by a 3 point margin.

Playing on their own floor, the Evansville Purple Aces were on the short end of the 20 to 18 count at the half but erased the deficit early in the second half and stalled out the last four minutes with the score ending 43-41.

Sinkhorn collected 18 points to lead Western scorers.

Miss Marie Heim spoke to the freshman class on the keeping of the library: bringing in books on time, use of card catalogue and discussed the new books which have been added this year.

The sophomore class meeting, held Tuesday, February 6, in the Music Building, was used to practice on their chapel program about Kentucky. The program was given Thursday, January 8.

Dr. Gordon Wilson made an informal talk on "Prunes and Prisms" to the junior class at their meeting in the Cedar House, Tuesday, January 6.

Lorothy Compton entertained the seniors with several piano selections at the meeting Tuesday, February 6. Because of a tie, Senior class representatives were re-elected.

Cardinals Defeat Gamaliel Tigers

College High annexed their seventeenth victory against a lone defeat Thursday night February 8, in smashing a weak Gamaliel five by the lop-sided score of 48-14.

The game was unusual in the respect that the Cardinal coaches used a two team system with the regulars playing but half the regulation time.

Leaving the floor at half with a 25-5 lead, the Cards outscored the Tigers in the final quarter to stretch the final score to 48-14.

Diddle led all scorers with 14 points, while every member of the squad participated in the scoring.
